

PATCH FOR FLEXIBLE CONTAINER

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention provides a container system for flowable materials including a front wall having an inner surface and an outer surface, and a back wall having an inner surface and an outer surface. There is an opening in the front wall. The present invention further provides a patch attached to the back wall of the container, the patch opposite and in substantial registration with the opening.